Specific volunteer tasks and roles will be advertised on our website or via the group email list. Please ensure that you are signed up for the email distribution list on our website so that you stay informed of activities and announcements relating to CISV Vancouver.

Village Delegate Application Form

Written Response (to be completed by child applicant)

Please list any travel and/or camps you have attended without your parents. How long were you away?

Please list any other organizations you belong to (Scouts, Guides, Soccer, etc.):

Have you traveled outside of British Columbia? If so, to where?

What languages do you speak or are learning to speak?

When meeting someone who doesn't speak english? How do you communicate with them?

What do you know about CISV and why did you apply for a Village?

What are your interests and hobbies?

CISV programs are very busy. Are you able to decide when you need downtime or time alone?

How do you like to spend it?

When you attend a Village you are representing Canada. What do you want the others at your Village to learn about Canada? What do you hope to learn about the other countries?

At a Village, it can take 10-15 minutes or more to translate the instructions for an activity so all the children can understand. If the instructions are given in English first, and then translated into 6 or 7 other languages, what would you do while the activity is being explained to the other children?

Delegates are expected to participate in all of the activities at Village. How do you handle doing jobs you don't enjoy or participate in activities when you are tired or not interested?

At your Village, a girl from another country is being teased because of the way she talks. She is sitting by herself in the corner and she is crying... What would you do?

CISV requires a lot of work with groups. What do you think is the most important thing about working in groups?

A CISV program is an unplugged experience. This allows participants to fully immerse themselves in the program. Will you have any difficulties not having access to electronics or email communication with your family during your time away from home?

Are you worried about anything related to the Village?

Written Response (to be completed by Parent)

Why did you allow your child to apply for a CISV Village?

How would your child benefit as a result of their Village experience? What qualities does your child have that make them a good candidate to be a Village delegate?

Do you have any concerns about sending your child to a Village?

As should have been explained to you, preparation for a Village experience requires time and parental involvement – with the entire delegation (including the leader) and parents of other delegates. Are you willing and able to commit time to help the delegation prepare by taking on roles such as purchasing gifts, making travel arrangements, tracking delegation expenses, etc? Do you have any commitments that might conflict with this preparation?

What expectations do you have of the adult leader who will be accompanying your child to the Village?

During the program the leaders will be busy running programs and you may receive infrequent updates from the camp. Will you be comfortable putting trust in the leaders that your child is well during those days of silence? Will you be okay not being able to have direct electronic communication with your child during the program?

A CISV Village is a once in a lifetime opportunity where Pre-camp planning and delegation bonding are important in the months leading up to Village. This means that your child will likely have to miss a sporting practice, music lesson or tournament to accommodate delegation meetings. What other commitments does your child have? Are you willing to make CISV the top priority in the time leading up to the Village?

CISV is entirely volunteer-driven. Parents of child delegates are asked to participate in the local CISV chapter, following the return of the delegation to ensure our viability. Given family and work pressures, what kind of realistic commitment are you able to make?
